

IT - Certificate in Digital Applications

Course Outline

This course has been developed for those interested in how technology can be used. It allows you to develop and update your IT skills, in a practical and creative way, including website, graphic & multimedia design & creation.

Learners will be provided with essential knowledge to underpin both technical and transferrable skills. They will also develop the ability to communicate clearly and learn how to plan and manage a project.

The course consists of two units: one is internally assessed by coursework; one is assessed by external examination.
